AMERICAN BOMBERS AGAIN RAID ROME

CAPE ORLANDO FALLS TO U. S. SEVENTH ARMY

German Coastal Stronghold Taken After Enemy Is Outflanked from Sea.

By The Associated Press

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS IN NORTH AFRICA, Aug. 13—Allied communities announced today that the U. S. Seventh army had captured Cape Orlando, the German coastal stronghold which was outflanked by an American landing from the sea Wednesday.

The fall of the cape, little more than 40 miles west of Messina, came after American troops to the east and west had established a junction and overrun the adjacent towns of Naso and Brolo.

Axis prisoners now exceed 130,000, it was announced.

The Americans under Lt. Gen. George S. Patton Jr., sprang forward eight miles along the northern coast through Cape Orlando while the British Eighth army advanced four miles on the east coast threatening Taormina.

35 Miles from Messina

Both allied wings were within 35 miles of Messina, whose beaches were the scene of an increasing enemy evacuation movement today.

Randazzo, the central anchor of the Germans' rear guard line, was outflanked from the flank as American infantrymen surged forward over the northern ring of mountains.

Naso lies two miles south of the tip of Cape Orlando; Brolo is four miles east of the cape. The operations involved crossing of the Naso river, the communique said.

Both at the center and on the east coast there were further gains, despite stiffening resistance from the suicide rear guards which the Germans have left behind to cover their withdrawal to the Messina brigehead to Sicily.

The Eighth army reached the village of Trearchirafi, on the east coast three miles south of Riposto, and is threatening Giarre, the communique said.

Near Randazzo

"Northwest of Mt. Etna, after bitter fighting north of Bronte, the Eighth army succeeded in making an advance towards Mascali in cooperation with the (U. S.) Seventh army troops, who are now four miles from Randazzo on the Cesaro road," it stated. "American mobile forces covering the left of this advance on Randazzo made considerable progress across the mountain today."

Allied planes, swarming over the narrow Messina strait which separates the island from the mainland, were taking a heavy toll of Axis evacuation barges and their occupants despite a terrific anti-aircraft barrage laid down by hundreds of guns, reports to headquarters said.

The narrowness of the strait made it likely the Germans would save a considerable portion of their remaining divisions and equipment from annihilation.

Brush Italians Aside

Noland Norgaard, Associated Press correspondent with the British Eighth army, reported last night that orders left behind by the withdrawing Germans decreed that Italian troops be ruthlessly brushed aside and driven from the roads to clear a path for the retreat on Messina.

The escaping Germans were ordered to bring all possible equipment with them, Norgaard wrote, but turned captured Germans as having "the passport to Italy is a gun."

German retreating from the Randazzo sector north of Mt. Etna have been forced by the incessant allied attacks to move convoys only at night. Knocked out vehicles have been abandoned at the rate of one every 50 feet, an escaped American prisoner said.

In a dispatch, Norgaard said the German high command had established a special headquarters to organize the evacuation and prepare defenses on the mainland against any surprise allied attack on the toe of the Italian boot.

Lesser damage was reported throughout the city

REDS TIGHTEN KHARKOV GRIP

Soviet Troops Smash Ahead To Point Less Than Five Miles from City.

By The Associated Press

LONDON, Aug. 13—Russian troops tightened their hold around Kharkov today by smashing inward from a point less than five miles away while to the north a drive against Bryansk was stepped up in strength.

In strong fighting for Bryansk, the Moscow midnight communique said, the Red forces have engulfed the important German stronghold of Dmitrovsky-Orlovsky and 110 populated places south and east of Karachev, which straddles the rail line between captured Orel and Bryansk.

Storming in toward Kharkov, Soviet forces to the south have taken the town of Chuguev, 22 miles distant. The Moscow announcement, recorded here by the Soviet monitor, said the Nazis were in headlong retreat in that area. The nearest approach to Kharkov was to the northeast.

In the Bryansk sector, the communique said the Soviet attackers pushed to a point 25 miles southeast of Bryansk. Moscow claimed 1,800 Germans were annihilated in that sector.

Gains also were reported west and southwest of Kromi, between

PERSONNEL REDUCED BY ENGINEER DEPOT

10 Per Cent. Reduction Made After Year of Operation.

After approximately one year of operation, the Marion Engineer Depot, one of the units of the Army Service Forces, has been able to effect a 10 per cent reduction in its overall personnel, Col. C. B. Shaffer, commanding officer, announced today.

"The efficiency on this Depot has been greatly increased by the improvements in production methods, of storage and handling, and, in addition to this, simplification of office and clerical procedures, together with decentralization of authority, has gone a long way towards making the local Depot a more compact unit in every respect, and has enabled this Depot to achieve extraordinary results, in comparison with other like organizations," Col. Shaffer said.

"Many of the improvements on this Depot have been the outright creation of various civilian employes and officers, and handling devices developed at the Marion Engineer Depot have been adopted by other Depots throughout the country, with the same results, as far as efficiency is concerned.

"It is believed that the Depot has now reached a normal employment status, and that increase in personnel will not be needed in any large numbers except for replacements to the present normal payroll.

"This Depot has never employed a peak load personnel, and, for that reason, the cut in employment was not a severe one. It might be that at some future date, due to changes in requirements of various phases of the Depot operation, certain technical and skilled employes will be added as the occasion requires."

Fire Destroys Barn Near Green Camp

Special to The Star

GREEN CAMP, Aug. 13—Lightning struck a large barn on the Ray Klinefelter farm, near Green Camp, early last evening. The fire that followed destroyed the building.

Mr. and Mrs. Klinefelter had just finished milking in the south end of the barn, where there was an exceptionally loud crash of lightning. Mr. Klinefelter said the force of the bolt whirled him around. He said to Mrs. Klinefelter that "he didn't know how it would feel if lightning struck a place, but that bolt was awful close." Mrs. Klinefelter finished straining the milk and looked out the door and the entire top of the barn was on fire.

Help Called

Mrs. Klinefelter telephoned neighbors, and they in turn called others and called into Green Camp. The Green Camp fire department could not respond as the Klinefelter's are not members. Hand fire fighters and chemical tanks were taken to the fire.

Mr. Klinefelter, meanwhile, was trying to drive the five milk cows from the shed. The cattle were unwilling to leave the burning building. One cow started to return to the building, but was driven away.

Volunteers moved a tractor and hay loader to safety. Destroyed were about 15 tons of hay, 240 bales of straw, a breaking plow, tractor plow, corn planter, binder, harness and other farm machinery.

Other Cattle Escape

A cow and two calves in the north end of the barn where the lightning struck made their way from the barn. The calves were slightly burned. Another calf, stabled in another section of the barn, was more severely burned.

The barn was about 30 by 70 feet in size and had a shed around three sides.

A peculiarity of the fire was that the barn was supposedly protected by lightning rods.

Two years ago, during a wind storm the shingle roof was carried away. The barn was reroofed with metal, and the fact there was a metal roof to keep the flames confined to the barn and shed saved several nearby buildings. A drum containing 100 gallons of gasoline in a near-by building was moved to safety.

Mr. Klinefelter was unable immediately to estimate the amount of the loss, which is covered by insurance.

Mr. Klinefelter for several years has been a Green Camp township trustee.

REDS REPORT NO INVITATION TO CONFERENCE

Statement Leads To Belief Parley To Deal with Military Subjects.

By The Associated Press

QUEBEC, Aug. 13—A Moscow announcement that Russia was not invited to sit in on the councils which President Roosevelt and Prime Minister Churchill will open here soon suggested today the conferences would emphasize military rather than political aspects of allied war plans.

There has been no definite announcement of the subjects with which the conference will deal or when the talks will begin. Churchill, now absent from Quebec, visited Niagara Falls yesterday and then left for an unannounced destination.

The Russian announcement, recorded in London by the Soviet monitor, was broadcast by the official Soviet news agency Tass which said it had been authorized to state that "the Soviet government did not receive an invitation to be present at the meeting."

Attendance Not Intended

"And because of the nature of the conference," the announcement added, "the participation of any one representative of the Soviet government at the meeting in Quebec was not and is not envisaged."

Russian desires for another front recently have been underscored, and the question of an invasion of the foe's European stronghold continues the most provocative topic likely to appear on the Quebec agenda.

Roosevelt and Churchill may have made their decisions already on that point. If they have, undoubtedly they will wish to reexamine them now and perhaps make the final determinations of the exact invasion routes, the number and nationality of the troops to be employed, and the methods of getting immense quantities of equipment and supplies to the right spots.

Tied in with these considerations are Russian successes on her central front. In the United Nations war scheme, it would appear that the most important assignment for Soviet arms is to keep right on pounding the Nazis back toward their homeland.

No Reason for Attendance

Thus there might be no imperative reason now, from the standpoint of combat strategy, for the presence here of Russian Premier Stalin and an array of his military advisers.

It may be that the President and Churchill feel that the immediate task to be accomplished is the perfecting of plans for attaining the total victory they have promised their peoples and that the time has not yet arrived to delve deeply into present and post-war problems of political import.

Nevertheless, the rapid turn of events in all war theaters since the two met last in May, events which in some instances seemed to outstrip the most optimistic expectations, suggested to some persons waiting here to watch the conferences from the sidelines that they might want to get ready soon for all eventualities should Nazi resistance suddenly collapse.

Dipping purely into speculation, there appears nothing to prevent the calling of another conference soon which Stalin could attend, or for that matter, to prevent Churchill's making a round-about return to London by way of Moscow.

Prospects of New Offensives Poses Problem of Commanders

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, Aug. 13 — The prospect of new allied offensives in northern Europe and southern Asia in the next few weeks apparently poses for President Roosevelt and Prime Minister Churchill a problem of selecting two new operational commanders at their Quebec conferences.

Most important of these because of its direct bearing on a drive for final victory in Europe is that of commander-in-chief in the European theater. The other is that of commander-in-chief of the forces which eventually — probably this fall—will have the difficult task of reconquering Burma from the Japanese.

Since the start of the African invasion last November military sources have been notably reticent about the prospects for a commander in Europe. The pattern followed in all American and British American operations to date, however, makes it clear that if and when the big push begins it is almost certain to have a single directing head.

Should Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower be chosen there is some belief he would have general direction both of the continuing Mediterranean operations and the promised thrusts into northern Europe.

Speculation as to the selection of a Britisher for the European

Three Marion Men Get War Bond Sale Awards

BOB BYRD

JERRY PASSEN

RICHARD SHIVELY

Navy Bombardier, Merchant and Newspaperman Get Treasury Citations.

Three awards for assistance to the Marion County War Bond committee in its campaigns to sell war bonds and stamps were presented to Marion men at a meeting of the Marion Kiwanis club yesterday at noon in Hotel Harding.

Richard Shively, Marion bombardier on a torpedo plane who was wounded in action at Guadalcanal, formally received a citation as Marion county "man of the month" for June for assisting the war bond committee.

Jerry Passen, manager of Kline's department store, was announced as the July "man of the month" winner.

Bob Byrd, city editor of The Star, received a citation for assistance to the committee over a period of months through the handling of news stories about war bond sales events.

The citations come from the War Savings Staff for Ohio acting for the U. S. treasury department.

Shively's award has been awaiting him here while he was in Navy hospitals getting medical treatment for wounds. His return here for a visit made yesterday's presentation possible.

Presentation by Chairman

Elmer J. Schoenlaub, county war bonds chairman, who made all three presentations, explained Shively had undergone operations in which a piece of bone was taken from his leg and spliced into his wounded left arm. Also, muscles of the arm were given surgical attention to restore use of fingers of the left hand.

On an earlier visit home, Shively was principal speaker at a war bond dinner, relating his experiences at Guadalcanal. It was for his assistance to the committee in that program that he was chosen "man of the month."

Mr. Passen received the July award for having served as chairman of the month-long Shangri-La stamp drive in which Marion went over its quota by a comfortable margin.

After making the presentations, Mr. Schoenlaub spoke briefly about his appreciation for the support the entire county has given the war bonds committee since the outbreak of the war, and he especially praised the work the Kiwanis club and its members have done.

He also made special mention of the months of work Louis E. Michel, Chamber of Commerce secretary, has done without compensation while serving as secretary of the county war bonds committee, and greeted Luther Ruetsch, seaman second class, home on furlough from Great Lakes Naval Training Station to visit his father, Walter Ruetsch of 350 Mary street. Mr. Schoenlaub added that Ruetsch was a member of the Harding High school a cappella choir which appeared at a number of war bond sales events.

Earlier in the program, Mr. Michel reviewed the work of the county war bonds committee, reporting that Marion county war sales of "E" bonds from January to July of this year totaled $2,415,556.25.

Whereas Marion county purchases of the "baby bonds" prior to Pearl Harbor averaged $31,000 a month or 69 cents monthly per capita in Marion county, the figures for 1942 were $183,000 a month or $3.80 monthly per capita and for 1943 were $247,009 or $7.66 monthly per capita for the county, he said.

He listed the winners of the "man of the month" awards for Marion county since they were started in July of 1942, the awards being made in the following order: Mrs. Richard Lawson, Louis E. Michel, John Cleveland, F. E. Guthery, John P. Probst, Harold J. Grigsby, Miss Maud Gotham, Karl J. Pierce, A. J. Loudenslager, Dr. Carl W. Sawyer and Carl E. Danner. This brought the list up to June, and the June and July awards were made in connection with yesterday's meeting.

PUBLIC SCHOOL MEETING SET

Board Seeks Suggestions from Public Before Tackling Financial Problem.

Holding its first meeting since Marion voters defeated a two-mill school levy proposal in Tuesday's election the Marion board of education decided yesterday to ask the public for help in solving the financial problem that resulted.

The board, meeting at the administration building late yesterday, planned a public meeting for Aug. 31 in Central Junior High school auditorium. The entire board plans to attend in a body and to ask for public suggestions.

Members pointed out that Tuesday was the second time a two-mill levy had been defeated, and that obviously Marion voters are not in favor of meeting the problem by that means.

However, the problem remains, and the board is anxious to sound out public sentiment before approaching it in any other way, members said.

Various organizations will be especially urged to have representatives at the meeting, including the Marion Real Estate board which headed a campaign against the levy, board members said. The whole school financial picture will be studied.

The board yesterday reemployed janitors and secretaries, accepted the resignation of Miss Anna Parks as secretary at Central Junior High school, and made two school principal assignments. Paul Bingman, principal at North Main Street school last year, was assigned as principal at Glenwood. Miss Violet McBride, who has been teaching at Pearl Street, has been assigned as sixth grade teacher and principal at North Main. In the secretarial staff there is one vacancy, at Edison Junior High.

RAIL FREIGHT YARDS TARGET OF BIG ATTACK

Bombers Emphasize Warning Allies Will Continue To Carry War To Italy.

By The Associated Press

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS IN NORTH AFRICA, Aug. 13 — A huge fleet of American bombers again bombed Rome today, destructively emphasizing the recent warning to the Italian people that mass Allied raids were about to be resumed.

The fleet of American bombers, including Flying Fortresses, Mitchells and Marauders, attacked the Italian capital before noon, it was announced, with the railroad freight yards again the principal targets.

Rome was first bombed in a daylight raid by American precision bombers on July 19.

Behind the wave of Fortresses in today's raid came the lighter Mitchells and Marauders, bombing from low levels and pouring their tracers into the center of an already burning area, announced.

The raid probably equalled the first in size, when allied air commanders put into the air the greatest aerial concentration since the beginning of the Mediterranean campaign.

As far as was known, no statement of explanation was radioed to the Italian people this time as was done before.

The new attack was a warning that the allied threat to bomb Rome again would be maintained.

A special air communique, which did not give all the details given in later announcements, said:

"Strong forces of heavy and medium bombers of the northwest African air forces today attacked marshalling yards at Rome."

The raid on the Italian capital was disclosed shortly after London announced that Britain-based bombers, attacking northern Italy in greater strength than ever before, raided Milan and Turin last night.

At the same time, swift RAF mosquitos struck at Berlin, so both axis capitals felt the sting of allied air power.

RAF Halifax and Liberators from the Middle East command early yesterday, contributed their share of the allied aerial effort to force the Italians from the war. They heavily attacked railway sidings at San Giovanni, on the toe of Italy just opposite the axis Messina bridgehead on Sicily.

Raiders Hit At 11 a. m.

The first waves of Flying Fortresses ran over Rome this morning and hit the San Lorenzo yards a little after 11 a. m.

Almost simultaneously, Mitchells and Marauders began bombing the Littorio yards.

It was an All-American raid again, the bombers coming from the strategic air force which is commanded by Maj. Gen. James H. Doolittle.

As before, the pilots were instructed before going out on the necessity of getting their bombs in the target area and to avoid hitting churches or historical objects.

An air force commentator, pointing out the strategic importance of Rome in the axis communications system, said the capital fort must be considered as any other military objective.

The San Lorenzo yards, situated in the east central part of Rome, connect rail traffic with Florence and Naples, while the Littorio yards are the link with Genoa.

Rome Raid Follows Heavy RAF Smash at Other Italian Cities

By The Associated Press

LONDON, Aug. 13 — Allied bomber formations raided Rome and its adjacent airdromes again today, following up the heaviest night attack of the war on northern Italy by a great force of British bombers.

The Rome communique said damage to the capital, which was first raided on July 19 by American bombers, had not been ascertained.

Hammering home Prime Minister Churchill's warning that Italy would be "seared, scarred and blackened from end to end" if she remains in the war, the industrial cities of Milan and Turin were principal targets for the night's operations, which probably put 1,000 or more fighters and bombers into the air.

The heavy onslaught against northern Italy coincided with an attack on Berlin by swift Mosquito bombers. Damage to the German capital was not immediately announced.

Berlin Warned

Berlin, whose people have been warned to expect mass Allied attacks with the approach of longer nights, had been bombed 67 times previously, the last time in May.

Part of the German capital's population already is being evacuated in anticipation of the forthcoming assaults, and air raid trenches are being constructed hurriedly within the city to supplement the inadequate shelters. The government itself is reported to be preparing to leave the capital.

Turin, with its Fiat Aero engine factories, the Italian royal arsenal, and chemical and other factories, has been bombed 30 times before.

Milan, one of Italy's most heavily defended cities, is the site of

Huber Co. Peacetime Product Plays Important Role in War; Rollers Go To Combat Zones

This is one of a series of stories about the contributions Marion industries are making in the war effort through the production of equipment for work vital to the war. This article has been approved for publication by the Office of Censorship in Washington, D. C.

The Huber Manufacturing Co., oldest sizeable Marion industry, found one of its standard products in great demand for use in the war when this country was plunged into the World conflict nearly two years ago.

The Huber Co. had gone through three previous wars, and in each had made its industrial contribution largely through the manufacture of farm machinery to help feed the nation's armed forces, but when the present conflict touched off the most highly mechanized war the world has ever known, the company found that one of its regular peacetime products had an urgent job to do in the combat zones.

Rollers for War

This product is the Huber roller, which is helping Uncle Sam and the allies build airports and other military installations in many parts of the world with the greatest possible speed. They are in such demand among the military forces that the company has made use of subcontractors to help them speed up production.

The extent to which the company and its employes are hitting the ball in the production of their war-needed product is shown by the fact that the company's 1943 dollar volume of business will be about three times the normal annual pre-war level. To make this possible, the number of employes has been increased considerably over peacetime levels.

The company joined thousands of others, when the war broke out, by centering its attention on products needed for the war, and this made drastic changes in operations necessary. Before the war rollers represented between 25 and 30 per cent of the company's business. Its peacetime products including tractors, combines and other farm machinery. Now rollers and tractors for military use represent about 97 per cent of the business, the remainder being farm machinery built under government limitations for use in the "food for victory" program. The company's entire output finds direct or indirect use in the war program.

How Rollers Are Used

Rollers are needed to compact runways for airfields and roadways for mechanized equipment wherever an army goes, and consequently Huber rollers are on the job in most of the war zones that produce headlines today. Building new airfields and roadways and patching others that have been damaged by bombs are the No. 1 jobs of the roller equipment. They are scattered through the South Pacific, were used on the Alcan highway and some of them were on Wake Island when it fell to the Japs. Dozens did their part in the North African theater of war.

Earlier in the war, the company, to meet a particularly urgent war problem involving the need of rollers, partially dismantled several, boxed them and sent them by airplane to the needed points. Although shipment of a 10-ton roller by air might have seemed out of the question in ordinary times, Huber tackled and filled this particularly difficult assignment.

Many times these rollers travel with combat troops and are among the first pieces of equipment put ashore. They are targets of enemy guns and planes and occasionally are victims of enemy land mines. They have been used by the Army Engineers, the Navy, lend-lease nations and in the defense-aid program.

In 10-Ton Class

The rollers are among th largest being used in the war, many of them being in the 10-ton class. They are powered by gasoline or Diesel motors.

In the early years of the war, before Pearl Harbor, the company made many tractors with grading attachments that were used to develop air bases in South and Central America. Also, the tractors are used to taxi big planes around airfields—planes so big they can't taxi around under their own power like smaller ships. The company still makes a number of tractors for military use, but the biggest war need is for rollers.

The company manufactures virtually all parts of its products excepting the engines, turning out a large volume of work through its gray iron foundry and machine shop.

160 in Service

One hundred and sixty Huber workers are now in military service, and occasionally officials get a letter from the battlefronts from an employe telling of having seen a Huber "in action" near the front lines.

Since the war began the company has designed machine tools to help speed up production of equipment the military forces need.

Helping in these and every other activity that Huber carries on are an unusual percentage of employes with long service records.

DYING, BRINGS DOWN PLANES. Lieut. Joseph R. Sarnoski (above), of Richmond, Va., stuck to his gun in the nose of a flying fortress on a mapping mission over Bougainville Island in the South Pacific, after he was mortally wounded in an attack by ten Jap fighters, and shot down two Jap planes.

HIGHWAY PAYROLL PADDING DENIED

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O., Aug. 13—Gov. Bricker said today "no evidence whatsoever" had been received to substantiate reports of payroll padding in the state highway department's Cuyahoga county district.

Bricker said a study of records and reports submitted by Highway Director Hal G. Sours and Division Engineer Robert E. Willems of Cleveland satisfied him the division was being operated "efficiently and economically."

The chief executive also conferred personally with Sours and Willems. Congressman George Bender of Cleveland was present at the meeting.

Sours conducted an inquiry yesterday—at the governor's request—after three division employes were reported to have worked in Cuyahoga county Republican headquarters last Monday. Timekeeping records show these employes did any outside work on their own time, Bricker said.

A statement issued from the governor's office said the number of division employes had been reduced from 714 in July, 1942, to 612 in July of this year, and added this was evidence of efficient operation. Mileage of privately-owned automobiles of highway workers in the division dropped from 15,043 in July of last year to 6,743 this July, the statement said.

The governor reiterated that "anyone found drawing state pay and not working at his job will be dismissed forthwith."

Poll Shows No Surge of U. S. Optimism Over War's End

By GEORGE GALLUP
Director, American Institute of Public Opinion

PRINCETON, N. J., Aug. 13—The government's campaign against over-optimism regarding the war should more properly be directed toward leaders in Washington than the people of the country.

Despite the rapid success of Allied arms in Sicily the American people are actually taking no more optimistic a view about the length of the war than they did before Mussolini fell and Italy began to crack up.

Before the invasion of Sicily, the average guess of the American people was that the war in Europe would not be over until the middle of 1944. Today, even in view of the rapid improvement of the military situation, the average guess remains the same—that Europe will not see peace until sometime next summer.

Opinions Compared

While it is reported that some civilian officials in Washington see the possibility of Germany capitulating by Christmas of this year, only 8 per cent of the American people are that optimistic. Three times as many think it will take until 1945 at least to smash Germany.

Those are the highlights from a nation-wide survey started by the Institute slightly more than a week after Mussolini toppled from power.

As for the war against Japan there has likewise been no increase in optimism in recent weeks, even though naval experts point out that an Italian capitulation will release large Allied naval forces for use against Japan in the Pacific.

The public still thinks the Pacific war will last well into the second half of 1945, which was also their estimate before the good news from Sicily.

Public's Guesses

No one, not even the most astute and well-informed military official can do more than guess when it comes to the subject of the war's end. The importance of the guessing game is that millions of American families may be planning their lives in relation to their estimates of the probable length of the war. Also, it is believed in Washington that absenteeism in war plants may be traceable in part to optimism over the military situation.

The survey was conducted on the following question:

"How much longer do you think the war with Germany will last?"

The same question was asked with refence to Japan.

The results follow:

PUBLIC GUESSES

Length of War With Germany
Will end this year	8%

You can "use up" this much of your motor BEFORE YOU DRIVE 5 BLOCKS

YOU CAN PUT AS MUCH WEAR on a motor in one minute, starting up with "dry" cylinder and piston walls, as you would in up to 200 miles of normal "warmed-up" driving.*

AND NOW THAT YOUR CAR STANDS IDLE longer, oil has more time to drain down from or dry off of piston and cylinder walls, leaving the vital parts without effective lubrication when you start up. While that oil's getting back on the job, real damage can be done.

V.E.P. ALLOYED-OIL "STAYS PUT". This entirely new and different oil has a "magnetic-like" action which makes it cling to cylinder walls and pistons not only overnight but for weeks at a time. You need never worry—lubrication is there when and where it's needed.

Prevent "start-up" damage... Change to V.E.P. Alloyed Oil

DON'T DELAY. Switch, today, to the oil that adds 50% to the life of motors, as proved by laboratory tests . . . the oil that lets you drive half again as far between costly lay-ups and repair bills. Get V.E.P. in your crankcase—fighting "Start-Up" damage . . . protecting your motor against sludge, carbon, varnish, corrosion. See your Marathon man, now.

35¢ per quart

*According to expert opinion, there can be as much wear in one minute—on a motor starting with "dry" piston and cylinder walls as there would be in up to 200 miles of normal "warmed-up" driving.

Cassidy Makes a Visit to the Front

CHAPTER 11

AT THE start I intended to write more about Russian and battles than correspondents and cocktail parties, but in this case all four became so inextricably mixed that it would be impossible to escape the latter. The activities of the correspondents on this occasion, moreover, deserve a place in anyone's history of the war, for it was an historic occasion, the first formal visit ever paid to the Red army by any foreign correspondents, and its was a precedent, establishing the rule for the future trips which gave the world its eye-witness accounts of the war on the eastern front.

We met in front of the Narkomindel at 8 a. m., September 15, in a bewildering assortment of costumes. We were met by a staff colonel, a brigade commissar, and a censor. We climbed into five wiry little M-1 automobiles and were off, down the Mojaisk highway.

We drove that morning to Viazma, a typical behind-the-lines town, bustling with the military life added to its peacetime activities. Situated in a pleasant valley, Viazma, celebrated for its making of gingerbread was at that time a base for the Red air force, as it was to become later for the Luftwaffe.

We could see examples of the marksmanship, or lack of it, in German bombings out there, where they were meeting the full opposition of the Red air force. A towering warehouse and a conspicuous bridge had been the objectives of four raids, an officer told us, but they still stood intact. The fields around them were pitted with craters, the nearest more than a hundred yards away from the targets.

At nightfall, we bumped across the fields to an expanse of land, which seemed to be just another empty space, studded like any other with clusters of shrubs, but which turned out to be an airdrome. Just being covered with branches, and hardly to be distinguished in the darkness, was a squadron of ten planes which had just bombed the Smolensk airport. The officer in command, Major-General Georgy Zakharov, a burly young man in fleece-lined flying suit and blue-banded cap, showed us around his field.

THE planes were long, low-winged, water-cooled fighter-bombers, carrying four racks for bombs of twenty-five to fifty kilograms under each wing, a cannon and several machine guns. One of them, already nestling under pine boughs, had a gaping hole directly through the red star in its right wing, evidently the result of enemy aircraft fire.

The pilots, still bundled in their flying suits, came out to tell us about their raid. Like any group of boys, meeting visitors, they talked all at the same time, then all bashfully became silent, and had to be prompted, one by one, to tell their stories: Ten of them had gone over . . . they went in at a thousand feet . . . they met no opposition until after they dropped their bombs . . . they saw twelve or fifteen fires on the enemy airport . . . a building which they had been told served as quarters for Nazi officers was wrecked . . . they all returned safely.

By then, complete darkness had fallen, and in the gloom we were given an unusual demonstration. One plane was trundled out of its hiding-place, taxied into a clump of trees, and faced across the field. An order was shouted, and it fired four times. Its shells screamed past us, and burst, making what seemed to me to be a later double blast and leaving two sparkling flares. We were so startled by the exhibition that everyone had a different version of it.

"The Germans are afraid of that," General Zakharov commented laconically. We wanted to know more about it, what it was and how it worked. He would only say that it was a new weapon used both against planes and tanks and aimed so that it exploded on both sides of its objectives. Later, I as told, that was the "little Katiusha." If it was, that was the nearest I ever came to solving her mystery.

We drove away under a velvety black sky, studded with stars, to the International Hotel, Vjazma. We were soon to regret that beautiful clear sky, and even that bombing of Smolensk. But that evening, we had other business, for Major-General Vassily Sokolovsky, then forty-three years old, and chief of staff of the western front, was waiting to talk to us at the hotel.

GENERAL SOKOLOVSKY was the type of soldier of whom little was heard, but who was highly important behind the scenes. He served as chief of staff first to Marshal Timoshenko, and then to General Zhukov, working constantly, tirelessly, efficiently, at the sides of the great leaders, learning thoroughly the problems of the front on which he acted as a sort of permanent executive and discharging completely a tremendous amount of routine. Tall, dark, square-jawed, clean-shaven, dark hair parted on the left, he looked like the kind of man who, in America or England, would be a rising captain of industry or a progressive young president of a bank. Here, he was a leading officer in the service of the state, like many we were to see, carrying out responsible tasks with energy and efficiency.

Sitting around the dining-room table, on which cups of tea and platters of sandwiches had been stacked, we heard General Sokolovsky outline quietly and simply, the situation on his front.

"The Blitzkrieg, in essence, has been converted to blitz destruction of German men and material," he said. "The Blitzkrieg failed in the sense that something has developed now like a continuous grinding of men and material, closely resembling the battle of Verdun, only ten or one hundred times greater than that, because the means of destruction in our hands are so much greater."

He advanced four reasons for the failure of the Blitzkrieg and stabilization of the western front: the will of the Russians to fight, increased production of arms, the weak rear of the Germans, and the loss by many Nazis of faith in the invincibility of their own army.

"On a large part of the front, the Germans are already digging in," he said. "For hundreds, almost thousands of kilometers, they are now on the defensive. What lies ahead of them is trench warfare, mud, Russian roads, and winter."

THE Germans did have one more offensive spurt left on that front, which they were to start two weeks later against Moscow, but which was doomed to failure. After that, for more than a year to come, they were to stay, dug in their holes on that front, as Sokolovsky predicted. The accuracy of his estimate of the situation, at the time he spoke, we were permitted to see on the very front lines.

About midnight that night, after talking awhile longer, the general packed up his notes and nodded to his aide. They pressed their way through the admiring throng of waiters and maids who had gathered in the doorway and went back to their headquarters. We stood in line to wash under the single faucet at the end of the second floor of the International Hotel, and climbed into iron cots, three in a room. We were awakened at 7:30 a. m. the next morning by the next act in the aerial drama that began the night before with the bombing of the Smolensk airport.

The Viazma air-raid sirens whined, the anti-aircraft guns set up their roar, there came the drone of planes, and then, suddenly, the shriek of falling bombs. One fell directly across the street from the hotel, blasting in our windows. A shower of glass sprayed across my bed. In a single movement I went out of that bed, back across the room, and under another bed for the door. Two other correspondents were already there. We waited, breathless, for the next bomb in that string. It never came. Instead, there came the song of fighters, rising to meet the enemy. The drone of planes faded into the distance. We could breathe again.

"Come see this," someone shouted. "Anurov has been framed."

We ran down the hall to the censor's room, and found him lying ruefully in bed, a wooden window frame lying across his ankles and chest. Once he was disengaged, we discovered that the frame and glass had done him no more damage than a few bruises.

"Look at this," someone else shouted. "The house across the street has been hit."

We looked out to see a few forlorn folks digging into the wreckage of a thatched cottage, bringing out a body. Margaret Bourke-White bustled out to photograph those poor people in their moment of mourning. The rest of us tottered shakily to breakfast. There, we were told, nine planes had come, apparently in reprisal for the Smolensk bombing, and killed at least four and wounded nine persons.

Reporter Finds It's True There Are No Atheists in Foxholes

(A stubborn foe in strong positions sought to halt the American advance on Troina, key Nazi stronghold in Sicily. But the Yankees slugged their way through, and a reporter finds it's really true about there being no atheists in foxholes, and that a dying man's religion doesn't matter. Don Whitehead writes another great story of how Americans act when the going's rough.)

By DON WHITEHEAD

WITH THE AEF AT TROINA, Aug. 6—(Delayed)—My friend, a blue-eyed lad in bloodstained fatigues, slid down the bank on the ridgetop before Troina and talked with us while Germans laid mortar shells around our position. We had been helping evacuate wounded from the battlefield, carrying them on doors and tabletops.

When the shrapnel stopped buzzing around heads began popping up from foxholes and stone shelters in the vineyards where the battalion command post was located. I felt calm and steady after the shelling, but when I lit a cigaret for Jack Belden, of Time and Life magazines, my fingers trembled.

The young soldier, Second Lt. Claus Anderson of Kenosha Wis., must have noticed it.

"You know," he said, "it's true there are no atheists in foxholes. I found that out yesterday on the next ridge."

Give Aid to Comrade

Anderson and Cpl. Wayne Palmer of Ladysmith, Wis., were in a gully under machinegun fire trying to dress the wounds of a comrade who had been hit in the side. They carried him into a stone shack nearby while Germans sniped at them.

"There were five wounded men in the place and others in the field nearby," Anderson said. "Palmer never refused to go anywhere. I never saw a man with more guts. He kept bringing wounded men off the field although he'd been nicked by a bullet himself. We used up all our bandages and all the Heine bandages we picked up, too."

"Yeah," said Lt. Stan Mastyle of Philadelphia. "It was a tough spot. The boys had plenty of guts, and what about Kelly? There's a soldier for you. Ralph refused to leave his machinegun post until all the riflemen were out and he had no support himself." He was talking of Cpl. Ralph Kelly of Emmetsburg, Md.

Mastyl and Palmer were with the wounded in the shack all day while Germans shelled the area and machinegunned anyone who came into the open. They tried to reach one wounded man but were driven back by machinegun fire each time they came out of the shack.

"Nobody's got more guts than a wounded man," Anderson observed, "and as I said, there are no atheists in foxholes. We thought one of the men was dying. We all said a prayer for him.

"There were a number of Catholics there. They read a prayer from a book. I don't think the wounded man was a Catholic, but nobody cared what the religion was. It didn't matter, did it?" I said no, it didn't matter.

A radio report came in from Capt. Robert Tutler of Washington, Mo., that Germans were counter-attacking. This was in the morning yesterday—the day the Troina line cracked. But in midmorning there was still strong enemy resistance and our artillery kept pounding away.

Maj. Charles (Chuck) Horner of Doylestown, Pa., battalion commander, called for an artillery concentration on the reverse slope of Tutler's hill, and the shells whined over us.

"That got 'em," Tutler said. "They're pulling back now."

"Okay," Horner said, "we'll keep pouring it to them and chase them out. How are you?"

"I'm all right," Tutler said "there are Heinies all around us everywhere. They're stubborn as hell."

Machineguns Ignored

Machinegun fire rattled over the top of our ridge and bullets whined over. No one paid any attention to this little stuff. Around us soldiers slept in foxholes, too tired even to move the rocks from under their bodies.

You wondered how they endured attack night after night, the seemingly never-ending marching across gullied valleys and steep rocky ridges, the constant pounding of artillery and rattle of mach guns.

For five days they had gone without sparks and had eaten K rations and if their field rations up with them. They'd slept on the ground with only a blanket to cover them and sometimes not even that because they didn't want to carry the extra weight. But they were tough, and they ate the enemy up, too.

One soldier said he had not had his shoes off in 21 days. "I'm afraid if I take them off," he smiled ruefully, "that I'll never get them back on."

The sun was shining when a formation of 12 B-25s thundered over. They flew to the north, made a wide circle and came back over Troina. Bombs showered from their bellies. Explosions started on the hill below the city and ran up it, them as they leveled off and over it, tipping up great columns of gray smoke.

The war on land came to a pause. Fifteen minutes later the divebombers came back and the soldiers stopped operations to watch the destruction rain down. Even artillery fell silent as the bombs fell beneath enemy forces.

GERMANS REPORTED FLEEING BERLIN

By The Associated Press

BERN, Switzerland, Aug. 13—Reports reaching here said today a substantial part of the Nazi government staff had been evacuated from Berlin to Vienna in safety from allied air raids.

These reports said informed Nazi authorities were considering proclaiming their capital an open city in an effort to save it from the same fate which struck Hamburg, Cologne, Duesseldorf and other German cities.

German reports indicate more than 1,000,000 civilians of a total of 4,000,000 already have evacuated Berlin. Leipzig, Magdeburg and Brunswick also are reported being evacuated.

Railroad yards are said to be crammed with evacuation trains, waiting for instructions where to go. Evacuees often are kept waiting in crowded coaches and trucks and days at a time without adequate feeding and sleeping arrangements, reports said, resulting in a further increase in ailments and lowering of morale.

Child Recovering After City Editor Finds Rare Drug

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK, Aug. 13—Forty-four hours after she had been given only seven hours to live, two-year-old Patricia Malone's temperature was normal today for the first time since she was brought to the Lutheran hospital last Monday.

The magic of the rare drug, penicillin, was at work, and hopes were brightening for the recovery of the little girl, who is suffering from a blood disease, the streptococcal type of septicemia.

To City Editor Paul Schoenstein of the New York Journal-American and to members of his staff, whose successful efforts to bring penicillin to the stricken child's bedside had beaten the seven-hour deadline, Dr. Dante Colitti, staff surgeon, paid this tribute:

"You fellows have done something today that all the doctors in the world couldn't have done."

The Axis Shakes When Ann Shakes Her Piggy Bank!

Indeed they do, Ann, because you are a regular buyer of war stamps and you are sending ammunition to our soldiers to show the Axis what a mistake they made by fooling around with us! You are doing a lot, Ann. You are doing what all the soldiers are asking Americans to do—buying more war bonds and stamps all the time. We are all proud of what you and your friends are doing in the way of buying war stamps. You have taken it upon yourself to do your bit in this war and no one knows what we would have done without your help. You are a real American to stand beside your country and give your dimes and quarters to Uncle Sam when he needs them. Yes, the Axis has every cause to shake when they look at the way you, Ann, and all the youngsters of America have lined up with their money for Uncle Sam.

Canteen Calls for Magazines

Marion's Union Station canteen for servicemen today renewed its appeal for magazines.

Although similar requests for donations from Marion residents in the past have always brought response, the demand for magazines has been so great that many more are needed, Canteen leaders said.

Magazines should bear the date of the last three months, workers state, and detective and mystery stories are popular. The clamor for reading material has had to go unanswered lately and since the contributions of Marionites keep the canteen in operation, the women are asking for big stacks of magazines.

Boy Scouts have volunteered to help take donations to the station but those who can are requested to leave their contributions at the canteen center at the station.

Production Wins the War

ARMY Service Forces report that more ... page that been shipped to North Africa to date than was shipped to France during the entire first World war. That, in brief, is the story of victory.

Vast tonnages are going to the other theater of war. It is revealed that 1,000,000 tons a month are now going to Russia over the new railroad from Iran. Part of this may have been counted in the North African shipment since it is moving over that route since the Mediterranean was opened.

Transport of supplies to all the bases in the Pacific is tremendous but still not enough to complete the job in hand.

It is this staggering production and transportation of supplies which foretells defeat for our enemies. Modern war still needs great armies but more than ever it needs machines.

The Axis underestimated the speed with which the United States could turn to war production and the amount of equipment it could turn out when this transition was completed. With big industry devoted almost exclusively to war production and with the seas now in United Nations control, a constantly increasing flow of material to our own forces and to our allies writes the foreword to victory. Every man or woman on the war job is hastening that day.

A Film-Hungry World

LESS than 48 hours after American troops occupied a town in Sicily, its local theater was showing a Hollywood movie, the first shown there in several years. American films have been banned in all territory controlled by the Axis. Business at the theater was tremendous.

Films follow the soldiers wherever they go. Typical was a photograph sent back recently showing soldiers seated on the ground at a Pacific outpost ready to see a movie show while a detail stood guard with machine guns ready to handle Japs who might break out of the jungle.

After several years of film fare made up entirely of the dull and shoddy Axis propaganda pictures, much of the world is waiting with open arms for Hollywood glamor, romance and boy-meets-girl hokum. The makebelieve of the screen is one of the things the world needs after the bitter and bloody realities of dictatorship.

Production Line Nurses

IT IS announced that the number of nurses employed in industry has more than doubled since Pearl Harbor. These women, usually the pick of their profession because industry is able to offer top wages, play an important role in keeping war production rolling because they are always on hand to treat the minor injuries which may grow into ailments big enough to lay off a worker.

Most big plants now have their emergency rooms with a qualified nurse in attendance. Few persons on the payroll contribute more to the efficiency of the plant for they play a big part in cutting down time loss among the employes.

A survey shows that 66,000 more nurses will be needed this year for the armed forces and 293,000 in civilian life. In filling this need the importance of the industrial nurse in her present job should be recognized. It is just as essential to winning the war that the men on the production front be kept on the job as it is that the fighting men be kept fit for fighting.

The Return of Nature

MAN is doing a pretty fair job of returning to the people of Ohio a part of the wild life they almost annihilated in their reckless expenditure of public resources.

Hunters and fishermen had almost stripped the streams and fields of wild life when the state and private organizations stepped in with a program of rehabilitation, results of which are now apparent.

A systematic restocking plan has brought good fishing to Ohio streams and lakes and the flood control dams built in the last decade have provided new fishing places. Pheasants are becoming more numerous, rabbits are all too plentiful in the opinion of the thousands of Victory gardeners and even deer have made such a return in some sections that they are a menace to crops and there is talk of a limited open season.

With hunting at a minimum this year, wild life probably will show an even greater increase. Under sensible regulation and with a good restocking program, fields and waters will again provide an important source of outdoor sport and food for the Ohio family.

Nature needs only a little help to replenish that which man has so ruthlessly destroyed.

German Defense Problem Critical with Allies Closing in On All Sides.

If such an ... accompanied by a ... declaration of war by Turkey and an invasion of Salonika from the east all Greece can be cut from Nazi communications without the hazards of a frontal assault through Crete.

The German homeland itself is becoming practically defenseless from the air. The futility of her efforts was shown by the British attack Wednesday on Nuremberg and Mannheim.

Up Against It

For four or five days previously, our air forces had been relatively quiet, obviously cooking up a heavy new campaign. (We generally lay off a week between bombing campaigns.) During this inactivity we circulated rumors that Berlin was about to be attacked, causing the Germans to call in their planes and anti-aircraft for defense of their capital. To do this, they had to uncover most of the rest of the country, including Nuremberg and Mannheim. They cannot defend everything, therefore, they cannot defend anything.

Their defense in Russia is likewise weakening. Their communiques freely claim their current withdrawals are voluntary, but they cannot conceal the fact that they fought their best possible battle for the defense of Orel, and upon losing it, had to retire.

At Belgorod they put up less of a fight. But you may be sure the Germans are not now yielding a foot of Russian territory voluntarily. Everything they held was vital militarily.

For instance, the loss of Orel and Belgorod gave the Russians a lateral rail line behind the front for the best possible movement of supplies.

Nazi loss of Kharkov will lengthen the road behind the whole Russian front. Loss of Bryansk will be equally disastrous from a Nazi military standpoint, as it was a strongly defended rail junction.

Greatest Defeat

Yet the greatest German defeat of this war has not been adequately reported or popularly understood. Hitler apparently placed great hopes — far more than we knew at the time—upon restricted submarine warfare. Like the Kaiser, he staked all on stopping the flow of our munitions and men to the battle fronts of North Africa, Russia, and Britain.

Tunisia, Sicily and Italy were lost to him when he failed to sink our ships, just as all Europe now obviously has become lost to him by the failure of his complete Atlantic submarine campaign. Historians may yet record that he lost the war by his failure on this front, as was the case in 1917.

From a military standpoint, his position thus already has become practically defenseless on all fronts—in the sea, land, and air. You may be sure the Nazis know this better than we do.

To Golf or Not To Golf

By W. H. Cunningham in Printer's Ink.

THIS is about men who have given up golf for Victory gardening. We have no doubt they sincerely believe the time they spend digging with a hoe will be a better investment than digging with a niblick. There are many other factors, however.

We choose to examine several factors. If this discussion persuades you to make an issue of the matter, please direct all insults to my lawyer. He's helping settle some real estate problems at the moment in Europe. He will not answer his mail.

You ex-golfers who come dragging into the house each evening with housemaid's-knee; who is going to keep all those golf club barkeeps employed while you prune your prunes? And who is going to support that great army of caddies until they reach 18 years? And who is going to put little dimes and quarters in those one-arm bandits hidden in your favorite club?

Lately I've heard friends bragging about giving up golf for gardening, but I've yet to hear of a gardener boasting about taking up golf while his plot goes plop. Truth is, gardening is a whole lot easier than golf, and someone should put the facts before the public.

If you will consult the tea leaves (any brand) or read the stars (3 stars) you will see that very few mortals can ever become good golfers, but almost any man can push a seed in the ground and wait around with his sleeves rolled up watching it grow.

When you gardeners grow weary bending and kneeling in the cool of the evening, you just sit back and take it easy until the old pump ceases thumping out loud. What happens, though, when a golfer gets tired and suggests a pause somewhere along the grueling route? He is jumped on not only by members of his foursome, but the guys behind start cussing him all over the place. He must keep humping with no time out for rest.

WHEN the golfer gets back to the club house, he probably will be forced to down a number of drinks made with the Lord only knows what. While you, dear gardener, you walk right into the house and pull out a bottle of the McCoy. You did not pay three prices for it either.

Another thing. The golfing tribe is always spending time and money thinking up new excuses to tell the wife why there is a slight delay about getting home. The 'elephone, bothersome instrument, is always at your elbow. Now, at home the little woman knows where you are and she's not worried. She can't think of half so many reasons for having you do something when you are there in front of her nose.

How far is it from your doorstep to the garden? Not far, I'll bet. But to get to your golf course takes plenty of gas or time on the train. You can walk proudly out the door carrying a hoe and all the neighbors will smile upon you with pride and goodwill. The golfer undergoes a slightly different treatment, however. He sneaks out quietly with clubs clutched tightly for fear someone will beat him over the head with them. He is afraid to look around because the good lady next door might ask him how his garden is getting along.

Do your children cry for spinach and such? The nutrition experts tell you they should. Do they cry for you to get birdie on No. 4? Try and explain to junior why one can eat spinach and not eat a birdie. Try and explain it to his mother who does not know what is a birdie and who does not care what is a birdie unless it has meat upon it.

Well, there we have it. Now who is going out next Saturday and struggle over a long, hot and dusty course when he could be safe at home in the cool of a shady garden?

So They Say—

We are anxious to see a peace in which Italy can play her part as a respectable nation once again—British Foreign Minister Anthony Eden.

I desire that you achieve a production record so far superior as to be entirely beyond the imagination of the enemy aircraft production plan—Premier Hideki Tojo to Mitsubishi aircraft workers.

TWENTY YEARS AGO

It was Monday, Aug. 13, 1923.

London reported that a Central News dispatch from Berlin announced that the German government had halted all reparations payments to the Allies.

Twenty thousand Lima workers walked to their places of employment at the beginning of the second day of suspension of street car service because of the strike of union platform employes of the Lima City Railway Co. The union was demanding a wage increase to a maximum of 11 cents an hour for those in the employ of the company longer than three years.

A news dispatch from Eberbach, Germany, reported that Grover Bergdoll, rich American draft dodger, had shot and killed one man and wounded another during an attempt to kidnap him. The shooting took place in a hotel room.

Plans were completed for opening the following Wednesday of the new Marion market in the new Knights of Columbus building on North State street.

Walter M. Lindsay, social secretary of the Marion Y.M.C.A. for the preceding year, resigned and made plans to leave for Pittsburgh to become secretary of the East Liberty branch of the Pittsburgh Y.M.C.A.

"Chinese Cow" Goes To War

Versatile Soybeans Used on All Fronts.

RISE of the soybean in the United States has been one of the most spectacular in agricultural records. In the early 1900's only a few thousand bushels were grown on scattered farms as feed and fertilizer. Now the crop covers more than 10 million acres, with 1943 production exceeding last year's 200 million bushels by approximately 7 per cent.

Soybeans, centuries old even before the Pyramids began rising from the sands of Egypt, came to America from China in 1804. They were tossed aboard a United States-bound sailing vessel as emergency food for the crew, says National Geographic society. The first written record of the existence of these beans was made in 2838 B. C. by a Chinese emperor.

In parts of China they have been both meat and milk. This "Chinese cow"—as the soybean is often called—has nourished children for centuries. The "milk," extracted by a simple process of soaking and boiling the ground-up beans in water, is rich, creamy, and high in food value.

In the United States soybeans are becoming one of the nation's most valuable "relief" crops. As steaks and other meats become scarcer and point values higher, unrationed soybeans may volunteer for butcher-shop duty. Although the flavor is decidedly different from that of steak, the protein value is more than twice as great.

Rich oil from the soybean goes into the making of margarine—to help relieve dwindling stocks of butter. The "eat more cereal" campaign may get another lift when soybean products are added to breakfast cereals this fall. Consumers also will be able to buy soybean flour soon.

Norepol, a synthetic rubber made from this versatile bean, may appear shortly in shoe heels, gaskets, and fruit jar rings.

Millions of pounds of soybean flour and grits go as lend-lease to relieve war-restricted diets. United States army K rations include soybean flour in biscuits. Plans are underway for a rapid feeding program in reoccupied countries where high-protein, quick buildup foods will be necessary. Native foods of the various countries such as macaroni, spaghetti, minestrone — a favorite soup in southern Europe—cheese sauces, and various other foods will be fortified with soybean products.

Germany recognized the food value of the soybean by piling up tons of them before the war. German officials boasted that without the soybean to bolster the army's breadbasket, the "blitz" on Poland would not have been successful.

Commercial outlets for soybeans include paints, varnishes, and glues. Some of the sizing for women's hose is made from soybeans. Automobile industries have made horns, steering wheels, and gearshift handles from soybean plastics. Airplane fuselages, cast from soybean plastics, have been used experimentally. Lecithin, another product of this many-duty bean, is used as a stabilizer in ethyl gasoline.

Mass Production

More than 22,000 individual companies located in 1,265 cities and 43 states are participating in the war job of the automotive industry, according to a preliminary subcontracting compilation by the Automotive Council of War Production.

Small business plays a big part in the industry's work. A number of plants employing 75 workers or less help build hydraulic brake controls, in a network of 38 small and medium-sized subcontractors working on the job. Interestingly enough, four of these plants have only two employes each, a "boss" and his assistant.

On another job, an automotive company has enlisted the help of 199 subcontractors. Sixty-two of these employ less than 100 workers each, 78 range from 100 to 500 employes, with the remaining 59 more than 500 workers.

Charlotte, N. C., was named after Princess Charlotte, the wife of King George III of England.

The great Deluge mentioned in the Bible is believed to have occurred around 4,000 B. C.

War Correspondents

Lucky Daredevils Get to Front; Men Back at Headquarters Generally Write Headline News.

By DAMON RUNYON

I HAVE read that there are 95 American newspaper and press associations and radio correspondents in North Africa and Sicily. Another large delegation is in England waiting for the big invasion. We still have a large representation in Australia and with our forces on the islands of the South Pacific.

Some are in India and China and Russia and very few are in Alaska and the Aleutians. No newspaperman in his right mind would wear down the door of his managing editor's office demanding an assignment to the Aleutians. That is the toughest spot on the globe for the correspondent as well as for the soldier. It is plumb hell.

I notice that only a comparatively small number of correspondents following Eisenhower are permitted with the troops in the field in Sicily, possibly because of the lack of facilities for handling such a large number. The others remain behind at Allied headquarters in North Africa, which is not a bad place for a newspaperman to be during a campaign, unless he is a guy who yearns for close contact with fighting, as all the news filters through headquarters.

I can just imagine the disappointment of some of the young men who went into Sicily with the landing troops and even the paratroopers and were in the thick of the fighting and had the most terrific adventures, to find their tales buried in the inside pages of the public prints and perhaps well paragraphed in the paper let their front pages with more dramatic but more generally informative stories of the full sweep of the action written by correspondents at headquarters, far from the actual lines.

BUT you see, the individual experiences were fragments of the whole pattern and editors naturally place first in importance the complete picture. Thus the fellow at headquarters who has all the pieces of the puzzle in hand and can assemble them neatly gets the big play over the bold adventurer in the field, as far as the headlines are concerned.

American journalism, in its competitive way, nearly always overcovers a big story and I suppose the war is no exception, though you would have you know that this statement is by no means in the nature of a complaint. The over-coverage is a fine thing for my old loved profession, in that it increases employment. It would be a fine thing for the newspaper readers, too, if a newspaper could always print all its coverage as it would give the readers a wide range and variety of viewpoints and opinions.

But since the columns of a newspaper are not rubber and will not stretch, the editor has to pick for publication only what he deems is the best material from the bale of copy on his desk and the rest is discarded. Naturally there is some economic waste here. The product of much of the man-power on the spot is necessarily lost.

IN THIS WAR it has frequently been necessary to determine by lot among the correspondents in certain places who of the number should go on some mission of extra news value and their findings pooled. Here the superior powers of reportorial observation and writing skill of many a correspondent are frozen by circumstances over which he has no control. His engeniuity and enterprise in getting news, the very reason why he was originally patched to the front by his editor, is of no avail.

Eisenhower is said to have complained even in his North African campaign of the swarm of correspondents at his heels, but after awhile he became accustomed to them, and at no time did he get as tough with the lads as some of our generals in our other wars. Even Pershing in World war I was mighty standoffish toward the gentlemen of the press until he learned what they were all about.

OLD William Tecumseh Sherman was the greatest hater of the correspondents any general in history. When the union army was before Vicksburg in the Civil war, somebody told Sherman that three correspondents had been killed by a bursting shell.

"Good!" he commented. "Now we'll get news from hell before breakfast."

General George Gordon Meade, the hero of Gettysburg, got sore at a scribe for writing that he wanted to retreat in the battle of the Wilderness and had the poor guy drummed out of camp with a placard on his breast bearing the word "liar," but that was a bad thing for Meade, as the other newspapermen resolved never to mention his name again and he was almost forgotten by the newspaper readers of the day.

Womanpower Problem

BY EDITH GAYLORD
Associated Press Writer

This war's manpower scoreboard shows that it's up to women to carry the ball over the goal. Unless the women voluntarily warm up and get into the fray they'll have to be yanked out of the grandstand willy-nilly.

The team needs replacements, by the million—and for non-combat purposes the manpower reserve now is womanpower.

The numbers of women responding to appeals for service—with armed forces, as nurses, in war production work, in essential civilian industries and services—fall far short of the absolute minimum required.

"If the shortage becomes very great," Franklin D. Roosevelt asserted at his press conference, "it will lead to registering and drafting in of people of certain ages."

Women's units of the military services want more than 100,000 recruits within the next three months—which is as many as they've enlisted to date, although the WAC and the WAVES have been recruiting for more than a year.

Add the facts that Secretary of War Stimson has called for 500,000 more WACs, the WAC minimum quota is 91,000 by the end of 1943, and the marines and SPARS want to maintain induction at 1,100 and 700 a month respectively.

The surgeon general has asserted that 65,000 student nurses must be recruited this year to meet military and civilian needs.

As for industry, two million women is the absolute minimum sought for the next six months, and the war manpower commission says the rate of need will increase.

Bluntly the WMC and Secretary of Labor Perkins declare that two-thirds of the jobs to be filled are "unglamorous" — the dirty jobs.

They further assert that women who will take jobs outside the home can help in other ways if they do so by offering such home services as shopping, child care, food preparation, laundry.

Compulsory service isn't popular in America. Congress which would have to legislate a drafting of women, has an eye on the election calendar next year. Government authorities shy away from it. Instead, they hope to persuade volunteers.

Benjamin Franklin, in 1783, predicted that "men descending from the clouds" might some day be used in battle.

U. S. Okays State Arrangement To Handle Maternity Cases of Service Wives.

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O., Aug. 13—An arrangement allowing a maximum fee of $40 for free medical care for wives and infants of enlisted men in all branches of the armed forces was announced today by the U. S. children's bureau, upon which the state health department insisted in order to get a federal program, which recommends hospitalization of mother and child to a maximum of 14 days, with a minimum of 10 days. The hospital costs will not exceed $6.50 daily, payable with federal funds. Hospital payments will be made on a per diem basis.

The maximum allowed for the doctor's fee includes $10 for prenatal care, $25 for delivery and $15 for a post-confinement examination of the mother, Dr. R. C. Hill, state health director, explained.

Funds Allocated

The children's bureau allocated $[illegible] to Ohio to finance the program during the balance of the year, Dr. Markwith said he was informed. He had requested an additional monthly allowance of $60,000 and expressed hope $20,000 would be adequate although it was difficult to anticipate the demand.

Immediately after receiving notification of approval Dr. Markwith put in motion mechanics of the program. Machines began printing 50,000 application forms for distribution among the state's health departments, including those of at least 5,000 population, and all counties.

"The program should be started by Monday," Dr. Markwith said. "We want to do all we can for the wives and infants of the men in service."

The expectant mother who is to obtain the application form from the local health department or other designated agencies must submit evidence to the doctor that she is an enlisted man's wife. She must list her husband's name, branch of service, his serial number and his service mailing address.

Only the wives of enlisted men below the rank of commissioned officer are eligible to apply.

The program as approved represents a combination of the "good points" of similar plans in 39 other states, Dr. Markwith said.

The Ohio State Medical association, which objected to an earlier plan submitted by Dr. Markwith, assured him by letter it would "place no obstacle" in his path as administrator.

Reports Gas Rations To Be Cut One Gallon

By The Associated Press

CHICAGO, Aug. 13—The Chicago Tribune said today gasoline rations for motorists in central and midwestern states would be cut 25 per cent at midnight Sunday.

Paul M. O'Leary, fuel rationing chief of the office of price administration in Washington, was said by the newspapers to have disclosed the size and plans of the reduction in a memorandum to regional OPA administrators. Details as set forth by the Tribune were:

A, B and C coupons now worth four gallons each will be cut in value to three gallons each starting at 12:01 a. m. Monday.

The reduction applies to all motorists between the eastern seaboard and the Rocky mountains but will not affect the far west.

CLEVELAND, Aug. 13—Chester Bowles, general manager of the office of price administration at Washington, has scheduled a Sunday night broadcast concerning gasoline rationing.

Notice of the broadcast, from 8:15 to 8:30 p. m. (blue network), was received today by the regional OPA.

Robert L. Williams, regional OPA administrator, said "no comment" when asked whether he had received an order for a reduction in rations.

officials reported this morning.

J. T. Catliss, general manager of the Ohio Associated Telephone Co., reported that between 700 and 1,000 telephones in the county were temporarily put out of commission by lightning. A large crew of workmen still was engaged in repairing the firm's lines and connections at noon today.

C. C. Roberts, president of the Marion-Reserve Power Co., said a number of the power company's large transformers and fuses were burned out by lightning. In scattered sections of the city service lines and power lines were blown down. A large force of electricians worked late into the night to make necessary repairs.

The Marion rural electric office reported its lines were not damaged.

Masonic Temple Roof Is Damaged

Lightning also struck the flag pole on top of the Masonic temple. A section of roofing between four and six inches wide and about four feet long was ripped off. The bolt passed through a section of brick wall near the top of the building, loosening one or two bricks, lodge officials reported. The damage was estimated at about $500.

Lightning Starts Air Raid Siren

A Civilian Defense air raid alarm located at the corner of Bennett and Waterloo streets was started when lightning passed over a power line about 9:30 last night, Jack Ganoe, mechanic of the city fire department, reported.

Mr. Ganoe, who is in charge of the operation of the city's seven sirens, said the Bennett and Waterloo street siren sounded for more than a quarter of an hour before it could be turned off by workmen of the Marion-Reserve Power Co.

Green Camp Church Property Hit

At the same time a bolt of lightning struck a barn on the Ray Klinefelter farm near Green Camp, lightning also struck a wire clothesline strung from the home of Rev. T. A. Ballinger to the corner of the Green Camp Methodist church in Green Camp last night.

The shock caused a number of glass jars containing fruit to tumble from a shelf in a half-cellar of the parsonage.

A finishing board at the corner of the house was split all the way down. The same board and one similarly located on the church were scorched slightly.

Apparently the lightning grounded through spouting drains running down from the roofs of the house and of the church. Electric fuses were burned out by the bolt.

Rain Blamed for Three-Car Mishap

One of the heavy rains last night was blamed for a minor three-car collision on East Church street last night which involved two parked cars and an auto traveling east.

The collision occured at 9:11 last night, a time when the rain was at its hardest, city police reported. Dr. F. L. Hedges, 70, of 1149 East Center street, driving the moving car, evidently could not see a parked car belonging to Ronald B. Sporre of 439 East Center street immediately ahead of him and struck it from the rear. The Sporre car, in turn, was shoved into an auto owned by Grant Mouser Jr. of East Church street.

Slight fender damage was caused to all three autos.

Chimney Felled by Bolt of Lightning

Damage estimated at $50 resulted when lightning struck the chimney at the home of Bernard Simmons at 436 West Fairground street last night. The family reported that the chimney was knocked off and fell in a yard at the side of the home.

Lightning Ignites Sign Framework

At 10:10 last night lightning struck a neon sign in front of Stone's grill at 119 South Main street and set fire to frame construction in back of the sign. Damage was estimated by fire department officials at $25. The alarm was answered by Central station firemen.

Boy, 7, Injured In Traffic Accident

Richard Fout, 7, of 293 North Prospect street suffered a fractured right leg and body burns when he was struck by a car driven by Robert Eugene Sullivan, 16, of 218 East Washington street, about 9 last night. The accident occurred at an alley intersection near the Fout boy's home.

He was taken to Marion City hospital where he was reported to be in fair condition this morning.

City police, in their investigation of the accident, were informed by witnesses that the boy was struck when he was running from the south to the north side of the alley. He evidently failed to notice the Sullivan auto which was turning from Prospect street into the alley, police said.

Consumers Doubt There Has Been Food Price Drop

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, Aug. 13—That labor department report of a decline in food prices in cities sounded as pleasant as a shower in drouth-time but, an unofficial survey showed today, it didn't soak in with a lot of the customers.

Many people in different parts of the country said they had not discerned any 2 per cent decrease, as the department reported for the mid June-mid July period. It may have been because their areas were not affected by the reported decline, or because they haven't been buying the items said to have lessened in cost.

But a Memphis housewife suggested the labor department was mistaken. She said "I think they'd better check their statistics again; prices just keep getting higher and higher."

Comments on Secretary of Labor Frances Perkins' announcement of a decline in food prices included the following from key cities:

New Orleans—President Lloyd Keller of the City's Retail Grocers association said that while meat prices dropped 5.8 per cent in the period covered, fresh fruits and vegetables gained 12.7 per cent.

Columbus, Ohio—Rep. Vorys (R-Ohio) said he had talked with hundreds of consumers and distributors "and haven't heard any expression to bear out those figures." He said they were "a complete surprise to me" as "the trend here is toward rising costs."

Pittsburgh—"Yes," said a cooperative broker, "there might have been a decrease. Look how the cost of potatoes has dropped."

Richmond, Va.—Frank W. Whitlock manager of an Association of Independent Grocers—"I haven't seen any cutback in prices. I wish they'd prove to me that prices are dropping."

Los Angeles—Sam White, executive secretary of the southern California Retail Grocers association, 1,400 stores, said that "except for vegetables, which have shown a seasonal decline, I have seen no downward tendency."

Mrs. Walker, a recent bride, was formerly engaged in missionary work under the National Missions board in St. Clairsville Presbytery in Ohio.

Present besides those honored and the host and hostess were the parents of Rev. Converse and Pvt. Converse, Mr. and Mrs. W. P. Converse of 140 Dix avenue; Mr. and Mrs. H. E. SUBSIDY ROLLBACK OPPOSITION SPLIT

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, Aug. 13 — The administration appeared today to have split opposition to its food subsidy rollback program with its billion dollar 1944 agricultural price support plan.

While Rep. Wolcott (R-Mich) declared the new idea "looks like subsidy by subterfuge," Senator Aiken (R-Vt), another leader in the recent farm bloc fight against subsidies, predicted congress would welcome any workable plan which would guarantee agricultural prices to encourage production.

"I think such a proposal would have a good reception in congress," the Vermonter told an interviewer. "It would cost the least of any program thus far suggested and in my opinion it would be the best means of assuring adequate production."

Food administrator Marvin Jones reportedly is preparing to request an increase of upwards of a billion dollars in funds of the commodity credit corporation to finance price guarantees to farmers on selected crops.

President Promises Freedom To Filipinos

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, Aug. 13—The Philippines won their right to independence by the fight the natives put up on Bataan, says President Roosevelt. Furthermore, the islands will "soon be redeemed from the Japanese yoke."

In these words, Mr. Roosevelt spoke last night to the Filipino people on the 45th anniversary of American occupation of the far Pacific territory.

The moment the Japanese are ousted, said the President, the Philippines will have their own Republican government. By their battle against the Japanese in December, 1941 and for weeks thereafter, they "gave final proof that here was a nation fit to be respected," he declared.

The Philippine government will have a voice in the peace, Mr. Roosevelt added.

ported "missing in action" in the Philippines and later as a prisoner of the Japanese, has been received by Mr. and Mrs. Eyre.

A card from a prison camp under the name of Pvt. Eyre came to his mother by mail this week.

The card, a printed form with certain words marked to compose a message, carried the information that he is in a military prison in the Islands, in excellent health, and asked his mother not to worry about him, also that he sent "kind regards to all my friends at home." The card carried Japanese characters also.

Enlisting in the service in June of 1941, he was sent to the Philippines in December. He was reported wounded in action in January last year, missing in action in June, and a prisoner of the Japanese this June.

Mrs. Billie Jordan of 738 Oak Grove avenue, received a similar card from her brother, Pfc. William Wilson Jr., who also is imprisoned in the Philippines. Apparently the card was written several months ago for he wished his sister "A Merry Christmas and a Happy New Year." He is a son of Mr. and Mrs. William Wilson, who moved to Ironton, O., from Marion a few weeks ago.

SIGNS OF AXIS RIFT INCREASING IN ITALY

By The Associated Press

BERN, Switzerland, Aug. 13—Signs multiplied today that Italy is stepping away from Germany in an effort to approach the allies and democracy—for the latter, said the newspaper La Stampa of Turin, is the country's urgent need today.

Dispatches indicated the Italians looked anxiously toward Quebec and the forthcoming conferences between Prime Minister Churchill and President Roosevelt, hopeful the conferences would supply the means to get them out of the war.

The widening rift between the axis partners was becoming so apparent that the Milan correspondent of the Zurich Die Tat, in a dispatch passed by the Italian censor, said he could "no longer speak of good Italian-German relations."

The Italians' daily topic of conversation, the dispatch said, is "how can Badoglio free himself from the word of honor Mussolini gave Hitler?"

Not a single word about Hitler, the Nazi regime, or Reichsmarshal Hermann Goering now appears in the Italian press, which has relegated German war communiques to back pages in small type.

Two Men from Marion Family Meet Overseas

Marion brothers-in-law overseas who had not met since they were in this country were reunited recently in England, according to a letter received by Mrs. Arthur Galloway of 230 Blaine avenue this week.

The letter, from Mrs. Galloway's husband, Pvt. Arthur Galloway, told how her brother, Donald E. Rupp, seaman first class in the U. S. Navy, came to find his brother-in-law in an English seaport town when his ship docked there. In Pvt. Galloway's letter was enclosed a letter to Mrs. Galloway from her brother.

At a Red Cross club Seaman Rupp inquired if anyone knew whether his brother-in-law might happen to be stationed there. One of the servicemen he questioned was a man from Pvt. Galloway's own division, an aircraft repair squadron, of which he is crew chief. The reunion of th two men followed and they were together three days before Seaman Rupp's ship left the port.

Pvt. Galloway entered the service in July of last year and left this country in November. Seaman Rupp entered the service Jan. 4 this year and his family had not received word from him from May until Aug. 4 when he cable roses to his mother, Mrs. Clifford Rupp of 159 Barnhart street, with a message that he was "safe overseas."

MISSING TWIN BOYS HUNTED IN CLEVELAND

By The Associated Press

CLEVELAND, Aug. 13—Two 13-year-old twin boys, missing from their West Side home overnight, were sought today in a Cleveland suburb where police found nine-year-old Jack Buchanan, who had been abducted and attacked by a sex degenerate.

The missing twins are James and Charles Collins, sons of Mr. and Mrs. George C. Collins. They apparently disappeared on the way from their home to the Lakewood country club in Westlake where they are caddies.

Cleveland and suburban police searched fields and woods in Westlake, Rocky River, Fairview and Bay Village. Fear was expressed that the same man who assaulted the Buchanan boy, son of City Food Inspector E. R. Buchanan, had abducted the twins. Collins, a construction company employe, and his wife said they had received no word from their sons since they left home at 10 a. m. yesterday.

The Buchanan boy remained under treatment at a hospital where he gave a fragmentary account of his abduction. He reported a man in a blue car offered him a ride after he left his home to go to Lakewood park Wednesday. Police found the boy, dazed and bleeding, in a field at Westlake village yesterday by Farrell Gallagher said the child had been attacked by a sex degenerate.

Gods of War Smile Brightly as Allied Chiefs Meet Again

By DEWITT MACKENZIE

The gods of war certainly are smiling on the stout and kindly shoulders of Roosevelt, Churchill and Chiang as the senior partners prepare to begin what probably are the most important conferences since the first historic confab between the Atlantic in the parlous days of '41.

That is the big thing—military and political results will be considered. There are great international problems to puzzle the chiefs, but the matter of immediate concern presumably is where and when the Anglo-American allies can best swing in aboard the European parliament and capitalize the successes of the Red armies before Old Man Winter takes a nose dive.

Things could scarcely be going better on the two front fronts and the one all front of the European theater. That certainly should facilitate the difficult decision the President and Britain's prime minister must make.

No Slackening in Russia

On the crucial Russian front there has been no slackening in the Red offensive which threatens to force the Huns to withdraw their entire thousand-mile battleline. With the key positions of Orel and Belgorod already well behind the advancing Soviet front, the great fortified railway center of Kharkov, still farther south, is threatened with encirclement, and the Muscovites are virtually at the gates of the beleaguered city.

The Nazis are in a precarious position. Thus far there's no indication that the Reds are weakening in the striking power necessary to permit continuation of their drive to crack the German line and precipitate a rout.

Should the Russian assault lose steam before the western allies are able to take major action to divert further Nazi strength from the eastern front, then the opportunity for a quick allied coup de grace might be swallowed up in the bad weather of autumn, and the war would be protracted. That's a contingency the conference between Messrs. Roosevelt and Churchill is calculated to meet.

End Near in Sicily

In Sicily the end of axis resistance is very near. Already the fiercely fighting Germans are admitting defeat by the withdrawal of troops across the narrow strait of Messina to the mainland. They are pulling out in small craft under a canopy of antiaircraft fire to ward off the ceaseless attack by allied war planes which are taking a bloody toll.

One more strong point remains to be taken by storm before the collapse of the axis defensive line which guards Messina. That's the key position of Randazzo, near the center of the enemy front, about which one of the hardest battles of the whole Sicilian show is being wagered.

Even more encouraging than the Sicilian success is the status of the Anglo-American aerial bombardment of western Europe and Germany. The assault, unprecedented in its terrific force, has as its purpose the reduction of the reich to impotence by destruction of its war industries, supply centers, naval bases and land communications of all sorts.

Turn to Civilian Morale

So thorough has been the devastation among the Nazi war industries of western Europe that London tells us an end has been put to the steady flow of Hitler's basic materials. The great American and British bombers therefore are able to turn part of their attention to centers manufacturing consumers goods, like the famous and ancient city of Nuremberg. The purpose of that, of course, is to hit the morale of the civilian population.

One of the essentials for invasion of western Europe was destruction of the main sources of Hitler's war supplies. London's statement indicates that the air navies have wrought so well that the fuehrer now must be feeding heavily off his fat, that is, the resources which he had stored away before the round-the-clock bombing started.

So by and large, the allied chiefs should be pleased with the set-up as they sit down at the conference table.

Reports Given At W.S.C.S. Meeting

Mrs. W. E. Miley presided at a W.S.C.S. meeting yesterday at Epworth Methodist church. The meeting opened with a hymn, "I Love Thy Kingdom, Lord," sung by the group. Ruhl conducted devotions, and special music was presented by Miss Esther Van Bockern on the cello, accompanied at the piano by Miss May Evangeline Laurence. They played several hymns, followed by "Ave Maria" by Schubert, and "A Simple Confession" by Thome.

Mrs. Miley called for reports from the Lakeside conference, and gave a brief report herself on missionary work as carried on throughout the world.

Mrs. Charles Aikin gave a talk on the speakers of the Bible conference.

Milan Attack Most Violent of War

By The Associated Press

ON THE SWISS-ITALIAN FRONTIER, Aug. 13—The British air attack on industrial Milan early this morning was described by that city's newspapers as "the most violent" of this war, with destruction sown in all parts of the city.

The alarm sounded shortly after midnight and the all clear was not given until 2 a. m. Bombers swept over the city in waves and were met by the most intensive anti-aircraft fire yet put up by Milan's batteries.

From Chiasso, Swiss town on the Italian border, Italian night fighters could be heard in the air. Two planes were distinctly seen falling in flames as the whole sky glowed with the effects of numerous explosive and incendiary bombs.

The Milan newspapers asserted that one of the spires of the city's noted cathedral was hit. The famous Palazzo Marino on the Piazza Della Scala, seat of the municipality, was burned to the ground, the papers added.

They also said whole blocks of buildings were leveled and the number of victims was believed to be very great.

The University of Utah enjoys the distinction of being the first university established west of the Missouri river. It is a co-educational institution, established in 1850, three years after the arrival of the Mormon pioneers.

PROBLEM

command revolves principally around Britain's two most victorious generals of this war — Gen. Sir Harold Alexander, now deputy commander under Eisenhower and chief of military government in Sicily, and Gen. Sir Bernard L. Montgomery, commander of British forces in Africa and Sicily.

The position to be filled in the Asiatic theater grows out of the shift in British commands in India last spring. At that time General Sir Archibald Wavell was promoted from commander-in-chief of British forces to viceroy, which removed him entirely from the military organization. Gen. Sir Claude J. E. Auchinleck succeeded to commander-in-chief.

The British announced, however, that no appointment was then being made of a commander to handle operations in the field. This is the job which is still open. The American opposite to General Auchinleck is Lt. Gen. Joseph Stilwell, commander of American forces in the area and a veteran of last year's Burma campaigns.

Prince of Peace declamation contest, spoke in behalf of the Third War Loan drive to be started throughout the nation on Sept. 9.

After commenting that she didn't feel like a complete stranger in Marion due to her contacts Roy D. Moore, former Marion man now heading the Ohio War Finance organization, and Jesse Mason, former Marion superintendent of schools and now superintendent at Canton, she urged all of her listeners to go the limit in putting the war across on the home front through the purchase of bonds.

"Buy bonds that you can't afford to buy—they're the ones that are needed to help win the war," she urged, after pointing out that the entire nation is doing the seemingly impossible in industry and making sacrifices in every other way to further the war effort.

Declaring that this country has paid lightly for war compared with other nations, she said, "America hasn't been bombed—all it has been able to do is talk about feeling the effects of war, aside from the price it has paid in men."

WILLKIE SEES G.O.P. VICTORY NEXT YEAR

RUSHVILLE, Ind., Aug. 13—Wendell L. Willkie [illegible] Republican party [illegible] and [illegible] the 1944 election with a [illegible] liberal domestic program of expanding [illegible] and "a realistic foreign policy."

The 1940 G. O. P. presidential nominee declared "no party was ever presented with such an exciting challenge as is offered to the Republican party today nor with such an opportunity." His remarks were in a statement issued as he talked with Republican leaders of the Eighth Indiana congressional district yesterday.

He said he disagreed with recent suggestions that if the war continued beyond next year the Roosevelt administration "will inevitably be returned to power," and added:

"As a matter of fact, for the successful conclusion of the war, the necessary rehabilitation of the country after the war is over, and the enlightened conduct of our foreign policy, the Republican party should and can win the next presidential and congressional elections."

Willkie said that besides adopting a liberal program the G. O. P. must forsake "the tempting notion that it can win by the amalgamation of the dissident groups in America"—the "narrow nationalists," the "economically selfish," and those unwilling to sacrifice in time of war.

Dispatches from the Swiss border said the raiders were over Milan for more than an hour and that explosions could be heard plainly and a glow lit up the skies.

British intruder planes struck at the continent last night, attacking axis shipping and airports in France, and shooting down a German plane over France, it was announced.

The night raids followed daylight attacks on three German Ruhr and Rhineland cities yesterday by American Flying Fortresses.

The American raids were directed at synthetic oil plants at Gelsenkirchen and Wesselring and industrial targets at Bonn.

German planes hit back at England last night, bombing the coastal district of East Anglia and causing some damage, it was announced. There were no reports of casualties.

Phillies Complicate Second Place Issue in Senior Loop by Beating Pittsburgh Pirates

By JUDSON BAILEY
Associated Press Sports Writer

The Phillies are throwing a smoke screen around the conflict now going on in the National league.

The only thing of importance still to be decided in the senior circuit, of course, is second place and this is the dispute which the Phillies, who are not concerned, are clouding up with their smoke.

Last night for the first time in more than a decade, for the first time since the Phillies under Burt Shotton finished in the first division in 1932, the Philadelphia National league ball club fashioned a seven-game winning streak.

They beat the Pittsburgh Pirates for the third straight time 4-3 after the bold Buccaneers had taken a 3-0 lead.

The victory allowed the Cincinnati Reds to continue in a tie for second place with the Pirates and so incensed the gladiators from Pittsburgh that Manager Frank Frisch, Pitchers Bob Klinger and Hank Gornicki and Infielder Al Rubeling all were banished from the game for protesting Umpire Tom Dunn's judgment of a ball in the fourth inning.

Cincinnati, which came to Brooklyn two days ago in third place, losts its second successive game to the Dodgers 3-0.

The St. Louis Cardinals conquered the New York Giants 4-1 with Mort Cooper pitching three-hit ball for his 16th triumph. One of the blows against him was Mel Ott's 15th home run.

The Boston Braves again beat the Chicago Cubs 3-2 in 12 innings on a triple by Elmer (Butch) Nieman and fine pitching by Al Javery.

In the American league the New York Yankees turned the tables on the St. Louis Browns and won a night game 6-2 behind Rookie Charley Wensloff's six-hit hurling.

Rudy York hit two home runs to bring his total to 21 as the Detroit Tigers thumped the Washington Senators 10-3 behind five-hit hurling by Hal White and Emmett O'Neill.

Lou Boudreau had a perfect turn at bat as Cleveland nosed out the Philadelphia Athletics 4-3 and the Chicago White Sox divided a doubleheader with the Boston Red Sox. Boston took the first game 10-6 but a triple by Luke Appling in the 14th led to a 7-6 triumph for Chicago in the nightcap.

Toledo Hurler Pitches Shutout Against Millers

By The Associated Press

Jack Kramer of Toledo today was added to the list of American Association pitchers who have turned in top performances for the season. He buried a three-hit, 2-0 shutout over Minneapolis which gave the Mud Hens a clean sweep of a five-game series.

Milwaukee maintained its 3½ game lead over Columbus by walloping Indianapolis, 11-5, after the Tribe had defeated the Brewers four times.

Columbus stayed on the pace by beating St. Paul, 2-1, in 11 innings.

Keeping its first division berth, Louisville bested the Kansas City Blues, 3-2, on the rescue work of Norm Brown.

Out-of-Town Tourney Teams Promise Plenty of Action

The four-out-of-town teams which have entered the district softball tournament are apt to make the going tough for the five local squads which have paid their $5 entry fees. All indications from local and outside sources tend to place the caliber of all four visiting outfits as top-flight.

From information picked up here and there, these brief sketches of the four out-of-town tourney teams were drawn up:

The Upper Sandusky Merchants who are to meet Universal Cooler of Marion in the opening tournament game tomorrow at 4:30 p. m. are termed as a "good softball lineup all the way around" by Kenny Sampson, manager of the Merchants. Sampson was formerly head football and basketball coach at Vernon Heights Junior High school in Marion. Although the Merchants have come out on short end on a few occasions this year, they are described as a coming team, with "plenty of pep."

The Fostoria Screw Works team now shapes up as a formidable out-of-town threat. The Screw Workers won the district championship in 1941, the last year the tourney was held prior to this one. This squad will clash with General Excavator in the second contest tomorrow night at 6:30.

Of all the district teams, probably the Routh's Packers of Tiffin hold the best record. Only Wednesday night, the Tiffin bunch blasted a crack Camp Millard squad of Bucyrus, by a decisive margin after the soldiers had trimmed the Tiffin National Machinery team, 9 to 1, in the opener of a doubleheader. P. Kinshaw will pilot the Packers in their first round game with Coca-Cola at 3 p. m. Sunday at Lincoln park, scene of all tourney games. It was formerly thought that the Tiffin Machinery team was the squad representing that city in the tourney. However, T. H. McKenney, district commissioner, names the Packers as the tournament squad.

The Galion All-Stars are another group of softballers expected to make things rough for other tourney competitors. They will cross bats with the Huber Threshers Sunday at 5 p. m. A local softball authority who saw the All-Stars in action this week is high in his estimation of them. He said he saw four games at Galion and of all the participating teams he commented that "the All-Stars were the best." The Galion team corresponds to Marion Commercial league teams. Players on the All-Stars are recruited from various industries and business concerns in the city instead of from one point. One of the Galion players is Holliday, who lives in Marion and works at a Galion plant. He also is a member of the Lords Jewelry softball team of Marion.

Most Marion fans are acquainted with the merits of the five local teams in the tournament, Huber, Cooler, Coke, Excavator and St. Mary. The thing they don't know is how strong Marion teams are in camparison with the hotshot "foreign" teams which will compete in the tournament.

GREAT LAKES TEAM TO PLAY FREMONT

FREMONT, O., Aug. 13—Lt. Comm. Mickey Cochrane is bringing his famous Great Lakes Naval Academy baseball team to Fremont for a night game with the Green Sox on Aug. 22.

The Bluejackets are making but two appearances in Ohio and this will be their only game in this section of the state. A full squad of 20 former major and minor league stars is being brought here directly from Great Lakes and a new attendance record for Anderson field appears assured.

Among the players who will be seen here will be Frank (Porky) Biscan, who hurled for Lima in the old Ohio State league and was with the St. Louis Browns when he entered the service. The game will start at 8:30 p. m.

Softball Games Are Drawing Bigger Crowds This Year

Softball officials who are concerned with attendance at city league softball games might believe more than ever that interest in the diamond sport in Marion is steadily hitting higher marks when they learn that an average local softball game last month drew some 180 spectators. This was an estimate included in the monthly report of the Y.M.C.A., which is Marion's unofficial softball headquarters. Approximately 4,700 persons attended 26 softball games during July, the report stated. This does not include several Sunday games played by the independents. Manager Bob Putman estimated about 700 people attended one of these independent games, played by Lord's Jewelers.

About 165 different softball players participated in tilts last month. The report also listed total number of players participating in all 26 games at 572. This number includes many players who took part in upwards of six games. Marion Mewhorte, program director of the Y.M.C.A., and author of the report, estimated that each team used an average of one substitute per game during July.

The 180 average is even well over the attendance at the season's softball opener on June 1 when about 150 fans turned out. This game, moreover, was played between Universal Cooler and Coca-Cola, who now would easily draw 300 or more spectators. Still, softball followers who tend to live in the past as far as local softball goes, add that this average is a far cry from 10 years ago when a crowd of 1,000 was far from unusual.

Flag Game Called in Fifth; Huber Held 3-2 Lead

The Huber Torshers came extremely close to winning the Industrial league pennant last night but it started to rain heavily at Lincoln park in the last of the fifth after pending steadily for several minutes and Ump Paul Sure declared the game cancelled. Huber was ahead 3 to 2, with one out in the last of the fifth when rain drove the players to shelter for keeps.

The softball commission said after the rain-out game last night that the Industrial league play-off between Huber and Cooler probably would be replayed Monday night at Lincoln park.

This game would kick up play for the Little World Series two days as the winner of the Columbus-Forester tilt will represent the Industrial loop in the annual series. Opening game of the series was scheduled for Monday but will be postponed until Wednesday. The entire Series schedule will accordingly be moved back two days.

The Threshers drove across three runs in the first half of the opening inning and could not tally a marker for the remaining four frames they were at bat. Pete Howison, Huber left fielder, began the first with a single. After Anderson flied out, Armbruster, short fielder, walked. Myron Gibson, centerfielder, then doubled to tally the two base runners. He in turn scored after left fielder Partlow misjudged a long fly off the bat of Pitcher Harold Millisor.

Universal sped back to score one in the fourth on a walk and an error. The cold-storagers tallied again in the fifth after Dillinger had tripled and dashed home on a wild pitch by Millisor. The rains came about three minutes later and the players and some 600 spectators retired to various sheltering places. The game was called about 10 minutes afterward.

BOUDREAU'S BIG BAT PUTS TRIBE IN RACE

By The Associated Press

CLEVELAND, Aug. 13—Manager Lou Boudreau's ministrations with a baseball bat—eight hits in his last ten trips to the plate—have put war paint back on the Cleveland Indians, now tied for second place as a result of yesterday's 4 to 3 victory over the Philadelphia Athletics.

The triumph, Cleveland's sixth in seven home games, moved the Tribe into a second place tie with the Detroit Tigers. The boy manager struck two triples and two singles to lead the attack, giving Pitcher Jim Bagby his thirteenth win against 10 defeats.

Joe Heving was called to the mound in the ninth, however, to put down a Philadelphia uprising.

Jo Jo White doubled in the ninth for the A's to drive in two runs and send Bagby to the showers, but Heving got the next two men out and Cleveland's winning streak was stretched to five games.

Mel Harder will pitch for the Indians today, seeking his sixth victory, and Don Black will fling for the A's.

REDS HAVE SUSPICION DODGERS ARE FOOLING

By The Associated Press

BROOKLYN, Aug. 13 — The Cincinnati Reds have a slight suspicion that the Brooklyn Dodgers lost all those games for the express purpose of deluding the Cincinnati Reds.

The Reds have just lost two straight to the Dodgers, who were alleged to have collapsed to the point where they couldn't beat a team of grade school boys. Kirby Higbe, usually something of a soft touch for the Reds, did the job in yesterday's twilight with a 3-0, five-hit decision over Johnny Vander Meer.

Since the Pittsburgh Pirates also lost, the Reds continued in a tie for second place.

Vandy was just as good as Higbe except for the first inning, when the Dodgers got their three runs on a walk, an error by Eddie Miller on a double play ball, a single by Lou Olmo, another walk, and another single by Augie Galan.

Higbe fanned eight Reds to keep his lead, and the Reds never really threatened to give Vandy anything to work for.

Elmer Riddle for the Reds and Curt Davis or Ed Head for Dodgers are today's pitchers.

Finland Sees Ray of Hope for Peace

By The Associated Press

STOCKHOLM, Aug. 13 — The Finns are beginning to see a ray of hope for peace for Findland.

The strict Finnish censorship, which has been seeking to soft pedal any peace talk, permitted the Helsinki newspaper Sostali-Demokraatti to say that while "one dare not hope for peace in the near future we seem to hear an echo of coming peace."

The paper is the official organ of the Social Democrat party.

Findland is "awaiting great events," the paper added.

7 NEW ALUMINUM PLANTS IDLE IN WEST

WASHINGTON, Aug. 13—Seven brand new west coast aluminum plant units able to turn out 21,000,000 pounds of the vital metal monthly have been idle for lack of manpower since their completion months ago, it was learned today at the war production board. Enough workers to do the job have been hired but quit, explained a WPB official who said:

"All seven units, located in labor-tight areas and operated by the Aluminum Company of America, need only a total of 1,000 workers to do the task for which they were built by the government at a cost of millions of dollars.

"Two of the units—all of them convert aluminum powder into the metal—were completed eight months ago, one in March, one in May and three in June. In order to rush construction of them they were given super-priority ratings on materials at the expense of other essential war needs.

"They have not turned out an ounce of the 21 million pounds monthly they were expected to produce. Meanwhile, other similar units are being completed elsewhere."

AFTER MANSFIELD JOB

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, Aug. 13—The civil service commission announced today it had received the following applications for examination for the postmastership at Mansfield, O.: William M. De Hart, Clifford O. Lister, Frank Cave, Glenwood E. Coffman; Lawrence W. Mumford, David B. Lantz, Fred E. Lingafelter and Robert C. Dunson.

NEW BATTLE SEEN FOR LABOR RIGHTS

By The Associated Press

CHICAGO, Aug. 13 A report-ed application from the Mechanics Educational Society of America (MESA) for the American Federation of Labor's charter may mark the formation of a new national labor union in the great aircraft-automobile industry.

President William Green said the AFL executive council would hold a hearing today on the MESA application.

The International Association of Machinists quit the AFL a few months ago in a dispute over the charter rights in the machine field. The dispute has not become final, psychologically speaking. Harvey Brown, IAM president, has said his machinists were still "AFL-minded" but wanted an equitable settlement of their row with the carpenters.

There are sideline suggestions that the AFL's flirtation with the MESA is just to lure the big machinists union back into the fold. The machinists claim a half million members. The MESA claims only 40,000 to 45,000 members.

Green, answering a press conference question, denied the AFL had solicited an application from the mechanics Educational Society. The society's membership is located principally in Detroit, Cleveland, Toledo, and Elyria, O.

The AFL executive council declined yesterday to join the CIO political action committee in a cooperative enterprise on decided instead to pursue its traditional policy of setting up an independent political committee "to support our friends and oppose our enemies, regardless of party."

Green, who will head the committee, said members of congress who voted for the Connally-Smith anti-strike bill will be opposed vigorously.

Bucyrus Seaan Wins Praise of Commander

Special to The Star

BUCYRUS, Aug. 13 — Commendation for his courage when he remained aboard ship until the last and also for his intelligence and industriousness, Cadet John Shiffler, son of Mr. and Mrs. William Shiffler, was given recognition by the commander of the S. S. Thomas Sumerkson, damaged by enemy action, according to information received by his parents today. Cadet Shiffler is in the U. S. Merchant Marines.

Cadet Shiffler and a fellow officer were the only volunteers who remained aboard the torpedoed vessel with the ships officers and engineers who kept the [illegible] in an effort to save the ship.

They were picked up by another U. S. ship after being ordered to abandon ship.

Cadet Shiffler is now on two weeks leave with his parents. He is [illegible] at the U. S. Merchant Marine academy at Long Island, N. Y. upon his return.

LIGHT BIDDING HELPS STOCKS

Some Issues Are Encouraged but Many Leaders Lack Support.

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK, Aug. 13—Light bids propped selective issues in today's market but many leaders continued to lack worthwhile support.

Peace-thinking persisted as the principal speculative and investment handicap. While the war news was better than ever, most customers inclined to hold on to their cash.

Occasional flat gains were attached to Chrysler, Westinghouse, Yellow Truck, N. Y. Central, U. S. Rubber, International Telephone, Montgomery Ward, Pepsi-Cola, Standard Oil (NJ), International Harvester and General Electric. Fallers included Bethlehem, American Telephone, Western Union, Chesapeake & Ohio, Goodyear, Douglas Aircraft, Dow Chemical, and Kennecott.

The fact The Associated Press 60-stock average recently has been hiding at about 34 full points above the average at this time a year ago appeared to Wall Street conservatives.

Unusual Reunion

By The Associated Press

KNOXVILLE, Tenn.—There always will be a soft spot in the heart of Seaman Raymond C. Woodby and Soldier Bennie L. Woodby for a traffic light.

The Knox county, Tenn., brothers paused for a light on opposite sides of the street in a city in Hawaii. They discovered each other while waiting for the green signal.

It was the first time in many months they had seen or heard of the other, the sailor wrote his Knoxville wife.

RYE PRICES LEAD GRAIN RECOVERY

By The Associated Press

CHICAGO, Aug. 13 — Gaining more than a cent at times, rye led a recovery in grain prices today. Activity was on a small scale and the advance in rye was considered a technical development in view of the sharp decline which has occurred in that grain over recent sessions.

Strength of wheat at Minneapolis, where good mill buying was reported, gave the local market a firm undertone. Some buying here was also credited to milling account. No official demand for oats disclosed a scarcity of offerings and the market held firm.

HEAVIER AIR BLOWS COMING IN PACIFIC

By The Associated Press

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS IN THE SOUTHWEST PACIFIC, Aug. 13—Shattering air blows, even greater than those which helped rout the Japanese from the southern and central Solomons, were predicted by that area's airforce Major Gen. Nathan F. Twining, as U. S. jungle troops, sloshing forward in weather so bad that planes were grounded, moved to erase the last enemy resistance on New Georgia.

The report, minus details, that "our ground advance continues" against the enemy garrison at Bairoko harbor on the Kula gulf coast of New Georgia was contained in today's communique from Gen. Douglas MacArthur.

General Twining, in the language of the college football crowd, said the current Pacific offensive has reached "the second quarter of the game with our forces possessing the ball and with an impressive score behind them."

Saying the Japanese can expect even more power in the next quarter, he added, "wait until some of the veterans now resting come back into the game."

To date in the current offensive, the American airforce has downed more than 350 enemy planes, those losses exceeding our own by better than four to one; has sunk a cruiser, at least two destroyers and a seaplane tender.

What You Buy With WAR BONDS

Mobile Hospitals

Pitfalls of Love

By ADELE GARRISON

"WELL! I'll be eternally jazzled!" Dicky exclaimed. "I thought there was something queer about it but I couldn't see what! Do you think you can find the words, or shall I?"

"I'll say," I said. "Hand it over to the Lord."

I looked at the bag carefully then began to explore the sides and bottom. At last I touched the right spring and the bottom of the bag flew sedately in two pieces revealing a closely packed cargo beneath.

"For the love of Abraham and all his dependents!" Dicky breathed. "Look at that!"

It resembled a paymaster's bag in part. There were rolls of bandage, adhesive gauze, adhesive tape. But there were many things not at all in the hospital make-up line, and several bottles of liquid. These Dicky took out, opened, sniffed gingerly, and replaced.

But at once his face paled.

"That little one, believe it or not, is chloroform enough to put two or three people out of business," he told me.

"How much time have we?" I asked, and Dicky looked at me curiously.

"You don't seem to be disturbed by the chloroform bottle," he commented.

"I'm too interested in the other stuff," I said. "Have we time to get Halloran up here to look at this?"

"I think so," he replied, and went to the telephone.

"Halloran!" he said, when he had been connected with the room where I had left the make-up man. "Please come up to 1720 right away. We'll be waiting for you."

We spent the interval of waiting in examining the other bottles, some of which were plainly drugs.

"Sedatives, I'm sure," I said, "and powerful enough to keep anybody under once the chloroform had got in its initial work."

Halloran Arrives

"I'd like to know what she was planning" Dicky said. "Something devilish you may be sure. But here's Halloran."

The make-up man came into the room, examined the contents of the false compartment with a knowing air.

"Good make-up stuff," he said at last. "She could have turned anybody into someone entirely different. See!"—he opened a parcel at the side of the bag—"there's even an auburn wig here in the latest style hairdo."

"Well," Dicky said, "we can't

Saved His Life

"You saved my life" he declared. "And I think I will be safer if you go back down to the fifteenth floor again. Mr. Graham down there is waiting for one to phone him."

"I'll be waiting," Halloran said, "and I'm glad to be of service."

Dicky little cared how he was employed when he was out of sight, and "But I think we can work faster without him. Now, have you a mental picture of everything 'just so' replaced?"

"I think I have," I told him.

"And can you put them back again, so the dame won't spot anybody's been monkeying with her property?"

"I'm fairly certain I can," I said, and Dicky gave a relieved little whistle.

"Then go to it, with my blessing, and this handkerchief," he said. "Don't take any chance on fingerprints. She's probably an expert. I won't tell you to hurry."

Replaces Contents

"Thank you," I said demurely, but hurried as fast as I could with safety through the process of putting the things into the false compartment, shutting that down, making sure that the spring was properly caught, and then laying the articles of clothing back into the bag. I took a last searching glance at it, and turned confidently to my husband.

"I am sure it's foolproof," I said.

"Good!" he commented, and handkerchief in hand, snapped the lock shut, and set the bag back in the closet, calling on me to be sure that it was exactly in the place from which he had taken it.

Then we hurried stealthily out of the room, and no sooner had gained the shelter of Dicky's than the telephone sounded. He answered it, said "Okay!" and turned to me.

"She's on her way up. Get out into the hall, quick!"

YOUR HEALTH

Food Research

THE PRONOUNCEMENTS of the National Research Council on Nutrition are getting to sound a good deal like radio commercial continuity. They discuss only one side of the question, and if you will follow this advice absolutely and not pay attention to any other talk, all your children and dependents will be perfectly healthy and happy.

Now it just so happens that in the field of nutrition there are individual differences between men and women, women and women, and men and men. This fellow may get along all right on the National Nutrition Council's daily allowance of protein, while the other fellow is miserable on it. And both would be eating perfectly healthful diets for them if they could get what they want.

The rigid demands made for the daily amount of vitamins to be eaten is based on no scientific data whatever. No scientist on earth knows what the minimum daily amount of vitamin C to keep you healthy is. It was recently pointed out that the symptoms of deficiency of the vitamin nicotinic acid, which have been observed in a few people probably do not exist at all or are due to many causes, not just nicotinic acid. And so when you start out to make a theory scientifically you have not much has worked out for John Doe in the past, it may not suit you, Thomas Jefferson Adams Jackson.

One of the fundamental errors of many scientific boards is that they attempt to apply animal experiments directly to human conditions. They do not apply. The experimenters must know this because their various laboratory animals rather rapidly die for the same experiments at all. The common laboratory animals are the rat, the guinea pig and the rabbit.

The rat has always been a scavenger, eats everything, lives in filth and with disease, and you can hardly infect him with anything in the way of a germ, but he melts and moults and withers and gets scabby at any removal of vitamins from his diet.

The guinea pig, on the contrary, being for ages used to getting all its vitamins from a monotonous diet, is pretty resistant to vitamin deficiency experiments, but curls up when any infection hits him; so he is a good bacteriological experimental animal. The rabbit is sort of between and between on both of these, but you can knock him for a loop on reproductive experiments.

The results of all the laboratory work on these diverse animals is applied to man as if there were no differences between them. If nothing else, there is a difference in size between man and these animals. The reverse would be if a laboratory had devoted itself to experiments on a wild boar, a bear and a mastodon and the experimenters came rushing in, triggered, to apply the results to you and me and our little girls and boys.

They might not be analogous. The meeting of the food requirements as put out by the National Nutrition Board are all right, but don't get discouraged if everybody in your family doesn't follow them. Nature and instinct have been at work a good deal longer than modern nutritional science.

The Stars Say—

By GENEVIEVE KEMBLE

For Saturday, Aug. 14

SUDDEN, stirring and breath-taking events are forecast from the prevailing mutual and lunar aspects on this day. It is one of those times in which to "expect the unexpected" and grasp whatever great fortune or unpredictable turn of the affairs may present itself. All phases of life may be involved, but with the emphasis on the romantic, adventurous and extraordinary or revolutionary. Intuitions or "hunches" may play a major role in this whirlwind state of affairs. But don't be carried off your feet into vital errors or regrets. Keep poised and wary.

Those whose birthday it is may look for a year of the unusual, unprecedented and unpredictable, descending with lightning force and precipitancy on all the phases of life, personal as well as business. It is an uprooting force, radical and far reaching, but of unforeseen benefits, favors and adventures. Elopements or startling matrimonial experiences may occur under this vibration. There are likewise mystical, spiritual, artistic and creative expressions, under inspirational urges, with the intuitions and strange leads dependable. But meantime don't be carried away to the extent of being duped or misled. Keep feet on the earth though the head and heart are in the clouds, and benign fortunes should ensue. Push new plans.

A child born on this day may have many unusual talents and graces, with personal charm and allure, as well as spiritual, intellectual and creative abilities possibly of unique character.
